ABOUT IQRA

Unlike most Islamic Studies programs of today, IQRA's program embraces all the constituent elements of what has traditionally been labeled "Islamic Studies". This means that its overarching curriculum encompasses a study of the Qur'an, Aqidah, Fiqh, Seerah, Ulum-ul-Hadith, Islamic History and Arabic Language.

Furthermore, each of these subjects is taught at separate grade levels (Pre-K - 12), at the students' level of understanding. This is an important point, because it's commonplace for Islamic Studies classes to be taught using books that are not only contextually unfit for 21st century Muslim youth, but written far above the readability of a particular age-level, thereby preventing students from digesting and connecting with the goals of the instruction.
